It is University policy that all printing, copying and graphic design on behalf of the University of Southern Indiana be performed by or purchased through the Creative and Print Services Department. This department provides the best design, print and copy value available for the University's marketing and communication needs by producing and managing jobs and projects in-house.

The department offers professional creative services, technical expertise and knowledge of printing industry best practices, purchasing specifications and experience with reputable industry vendors. Any requests for off-campus design or printing services by departments are facilitated through Creative and Print Services and require prior approval of the Director of Creative and Print Services.

Creative and Print Services adheres to established University brand and style guidelines and mail piece design requirements of the United States Postal Service.

Services include (but not limited to):

- Graphic design — print, web/digital, social media, animated graphics, large format
- Printing — digital press and offset press
- Fully equipped bindery
- Copying
- Large format printing, finishing and installation
- USI Brand library management

These services are obtained by accessing the appropriate order form on the department's website www.usi.edu/creativeprint/order. Projects are professionally designed to meet established University style, brand consistency and quality requirements. University partners also are encouraged to visit the department's website to view helpful guidelines when planning a design/print project.

Any brochures, postcards, flyers, booklets, posters and other materials containing information about University programs, services and activities created by campus departments and offices are to be reviewed by the Director of Creative and Print Services before distribution.

Completed jobs are charged through the University's chargeback system. The department archives all printed and designed projects that it creates for University departments.

Copying/printing is provided by Copy Services, which is located in the Publishing Services Center or on satellite equipment located across campus.

Copy Services

Press-quality color printing, large format printing, variable data printing and mail merge also are available in the Copy Center. A dedicated courier service ensures timely delivery of orders to all University departments. When copying more than 20 single black/white originals, it is advised to utilize the Copy Center for higher volume printing.

University Fleet Copiers

The University's centralized copier program is managed and maintained by Creative and Print Services. The satellite copiers are fully networked, allowing offices to print directly to these devices. Paper for the fleet copiers is ordered through Creative and Print Services utilizing the form provided at www.usi.edu/creativeprint/order/xerox-copier-paper/

University Brand Guidelines and Logos

Creative and Print Services maintains the official library of all University Academic and Athletic logos and Archibald "Archie" the Eagle artwork. These logos may be requested by the University community for approved uses.

The University Academic and Athletic logos are used on promotional literature, marketing collateral and other University and Athletic documents and merchandise. Alteration of any University Academic or Athletic logos and Archie Eagle artwork is prohibited. For a complete guide on usage and to download approved logos for reproduction, go to www.usi.edu/brand. Any reproduction of the USI logos must be approved by the Marketing Manager of Marketing and Communications or the Director of Creative and Print Services. Direct any questions or concerns to these individuals.
